QUACK OR FACT

People you know... things you didn't. Now it's up to you, is it a Quack or a Fact?

I'M A BILLIONAIRE

What you always had but never knew. See how to share the wealth with others and be a Lucky Duck!

1. $18,000 Cash

CHAI you doing?! It's me, again! Fiveish! And I may be a poshuta Yid, but with an extra $18,000 in my back pocket? You might as well call me CHAIVEISH! I'll be a bona fide CHAI roller! I'll be flying CHAI! Oh the things I'll BUY! Me oh my, oh MY! My bank account will NEVER run dry! Want 18K? TRY FOR CHAI!

2. Eretz Yisroel

My daughter is spending her seminary year at Bnos Tiferes Ateres Eishes Chayil V'Chessed and she REALLY wants us to come visit for Chanukah! But after spending half a zillion dollars on seminary tuition and all that comes along with it, we only have enough money to get us to Newark Airport (barely). That's why I put in for this prize! Tickets, airfare AND a hotel?! Hang in there, Zeeskeit! Anachnu Baderech! We're on our way!

L'hitrout,

Quack or Fact?!

Half the time, people don't realize my voice is me, which makes it even funnier when they forward my own voice back to me.

3. Grocery Giveaway

In my house I'M the one who does all the grocery shopping! Why? Well, because I'm REALLY great at tapping all the produce to figure out which ones are ripe! That's why! OK, I have NO idea what I'm listening for (and I don't think anyone does, either) but I'm pretty sure one time a watermelon tapped back at me! And another time a pineapple asked me "Is this some sort of a knock-knock joke?!" I do know one thing! With $200 a week to spend for a FULL YEAR? I'll be tap dancing all the way to the store!

Luxurious accommodations & porches with panoramic views

6. Jerusalem Villa

In the heart of Yerushalayim, where many apartments are roughly the size of a walk-in closet in the United States, sits a place so spacious it should have its own makolet: The Oorah Embassy. With room for over forty guests, you can live like royalty; enjoying luxury, serenity, and, being just steps from Geula, the sweet sounds of taxi drivers honking their horns and yelling “Nuuuuu! Chabibi! Zuz mipoh!” Prize includes luxurious accommodations in the center of Jerusalem for a 4 day weekend stay for 40 people.

Great Matzivi!

My Zaidy used to always quote his Bubby from the shtetl who said “Money can’t buy you happiness but a $7,000 gift card from Mastercard sure can buy you enough socks that you can wear them once and throw them away, so you can spend the next five years never worrying about having to pair fresh socks every time you do the laundry!” Boy were they wrong! With the cost of socks these days, $7,000 of socks might only last you 2-3 years! Still a great prize. I’m just saying!

With the way my children's school tuition costs are skyrocketing, I wish they'd at least improve the school menu. The way things are going they're going to start serving whole wheat bananas for snack. But with an extra $9,000 to use towards tuition? I'll be able to buy my kids PLENTY of snacks! Expensive ones too! Certified organic, cage-free carrot sticks? No problem!

I owned a boy's elementary school for 11 years.

$8,500

43. Summer Fun

If your daughters have ever been to a girls' summer camp, chances are they had a "theme breakout," which was kicked off with a breakout to... announce the breakout. Which was probably crafted during a staff-only breakout to plan the pre-breakout for the REAL breakout! The theme I'm getting at here is this: YOU CAN WIN $8,500 to make sure your family has the summer of a lifetime! But you need to ACTUALLY put a ticket in for this prize in order to win! And then you'll see the best breakout of all: those smiles on the faces of your kinderlach!

Quack or Fact?!

I had no experience or knowledge in the food industry when I started Lamppost 3 years ago.

44. Yom Tov Expenses

Ever wish you could go back in time to upgrade the Tu B'shvat pekalach we used to get in elementary school? We used to get “buckser” that felt like it was dried back in the times of the Beis Hamikdash! A real dentist’s dream! Well, we can’t change the past but here’s to the future! Win $11,000 to upgrade your upcoming Yomim Tovim! Talk about a bang for your buck(ser)!

Quack or Fact?!

Aside from a very busy studio schedule, I manufacture suits for a company called B Sharp.

45. Daily Cash

I love to keep pictures of my kinderlach in my wallet. It reminds me of why there's no money in there! But when I win $50 a day for SIX MONTHS? I'll be handing out singles like it's Purim and my wife forgot to take away my wallet! The mailman, the barber, the ba'al Shacharis — EVERYONE is getting a tip now!

Steve and Zelig, the two main characters from the Steve story, are both actually my normal voice!

46. Priceless Bracha

People come to me for brachos all the time. And I always GUARANTEE my brachos will either work or they won't. Want a MUCH better experience, though? How about airfare to Eretz Yisroel for two, a 7-day stay and visits with Gedolim accompanied by your very own professional photographer?! Oy, we should all be so gebentched!

47. Instant $50,000

They say "Money Talks." Well, mine is usually saying "Goodbye!" So any time I can instantly multiply my cash, I'm all in! Instant 50k?! That's like instant coffee! Or instant oatmeal! Only... way, WAY better! Like ONE HUNDRED TIMES BETTER! Even my Bubby who had a MOIRADIKI recipe for instant ramen noodles would agree this is better! I think. Get yourself a ticket this INSTANT! Win 100 times your donation up to $50,000.

Quack or Fact?!

I am a twin. My brother's name is Yehuda, he's older by 3 minutes. Not identical.

48. Home Makeover

My wife thinks it's time for new dining room chairs. I don't know about that! The ones we have are very sentimental to me. I got them from my Yeshiva dining room when they were throwing everything out while doing renovations in 1987! I'm really, really torn. Just like my chairs. But I will admit, winning $10,000 to spend on a home makeover is pretty cool. As cool as my chairs? Nah. But still, pretty cool!

49. Losers Prize

I once walked into the bank, desperately needing a loan. The loan officer listened to my sob story and said, "We're going to help you back on your feet!" I was so happy. "Thank you, thank you, THANK YOU!" I said. And then he continued: "We're repossessing your car." Boy, was I down in the dumps! You know what I really could have used at that moment? A limited edition LOSER'S SWEATSHIRT! It just makes EVERYTHING better! Missed out on the jackpot? Feeling down? We have 1,000 ways to help you back on your feet!

I ended up being the sandek at a bris for an adult who became a ger. Nevertheless, he never made it to shul again.

50. Jackpot

Look, winning the Powerball jackpot is fun and all, but your odds of winning THAT jackpot are 1 in 292 million! That's about the same odds as teaching your pet goldfish how to sing Fishy Swishy Yum Yum Yum... in Yiddish. I'd much rather win THIS jackpot! The odds are MUCH better! And each ticket will be helping Yiddishe kinderlach! Yum, Yum!

אשרינו!

Lucky to be a Yid!

I'm a billionaire, always in His care.

In a world that idolizes material wealth and those who have a lot of it, Lucky Ducky reminds us how rich every Jew really is. No matter what is going on in the world, we are reassured of our special relationship with Hashem and His constant protection.

We are so lucky to be Yidden, chosen for a life of purpose and closeness to Hashem. Every mitzvah we can do is worth more than the biggest lottery payout. And having the Creator and Sustainer of the entire world personally looking out for our wellbeing 24/7? That's priceless! The richest man on earth couldn't buy what we have, ours from birth, as Jews.

Through all our programs, this is the message we impart: our fortune in life doesn't come from the cash we have and the assets we acquire. Being a billionaire is not all its quacked up to be. We have the ultimate treasure, the absolute best deal we could possibly attain, by virtue of our status of Hashem's proteges. We are in His care; He knows best and gives us exactly what we need at all times.

It's the feeling we want for all our children – deep joy and appreciation for the gift of our heritage.

It's better than billions of bitcoins, buildings or dollars. We're lucky duckies!

Nina is making a Bar Mitzvah in a week and her husband is going to close the business on Shabbos from the Bar Mitzvah on!!!

We feel blessed that this organization is now a part of our family's life, and we know it will continue to shape our children's Jewish identity for years to come.

Eliora got her first Chumash today! Thank you Oorah for making this possible!!!!

I learn with my TorahMate every week. I am trying to keep Shabbos and kosher. I am trying to learn more about Torah and mitzvos.

-K. Muldoon

I started dressing tzniut and put away all my short sleeves and short skirts and pants.

- Noa Rubin

There was a kid in my bunk who was making a lot of trouble during Shachris and he was regularly ditching so one time I asked him why he doesn't just behave and stay inside. So he told me that really the thing he wants most is to be able to understand what they are saying by davening just that he doesn't know how to read. So I started learning kria with him until he was able to say the first parsha of Shema.

-Motty Steinberg, Zone Staff

We got so much nachat from our children's enthusiasm and insights during the Chag, and especially at the Sedarim, and are so grateful to Oorah for their tuition assistance and programming (including TorahMates) that contributes to our children's Jewish identity, knowledge and pride.

I feel more connected to my roots and to Judaism.

- Levi Elkin

A lot of staff told me how amazing Shabbos was so I started to try and keep it.

-Gabriel Shulman

I learned how to pray mincha.

- Jonah Levy

I learned more about Judaism and learning more Torah.

TorahMates

Torah Learning for the Whole Family

TorahMates connects thousands of unaffiliated Jews with frum men, women, girls, and boys who share the beauty of Torah one phone call at a time. Ashreinu!

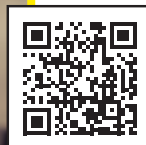

“ Josh and I just finished our first line of Gemara together. Thank you for helping me get started on the right path. ”

After learning weekly on the phone for months, TorahMates meet in person at the TorahMates Retreat!

Torah learning comes alive for young children.

TorahMates come together for a weekend of connection, inspiration, and unforgettable achdus.

Real People, Real Learning

From cross-country visits to life-changing decisions, these moments show just how deep the TorahMates connection goes. Here are some real stories of friendship, growth, and powerful reunions.

Vayashkeim Baboker

Liam and Yekusiel have been learning together for two years. Liam became Bar Mitzvah on Monday, and Yekusiel made the special effort to come in to Queens so he could celebrate with his TorahMate and meet him for the first time. But it gets better: Yekusiel's father drove from Brooklyn to Lakewood to pick up his son- to take him to Queens!!! And Shacharis was 6:30 AM!!!

Liam's parents were SO happy! Will send the pictures as soon as I get them, but I wanted to share this one right away. Really shows the connection and dedication our JTM mentors have. Really special.

When TorahMates becomes family: Raziel flew cross-country to celebrate Jeremy's twins' Bar Mitzvah

Substitute Sister

Today Ety and Esther met for the first time in person. It was amazing and Esther enjoyed it so much. I'm grateful for their bond and their learning. Very very thankful to you and Oorah for connecting them and just enjoying the TorahMates program. My daughter gained a sister she always wished to have.

Aini Dor Elah Bimkom Torah

A TorahMates mentor, whose mother is also a mentor, shared that his mother was learning Mesilas Yesharim with her partner, but then the partner said she can't continue. This continued for a month. Then the partner called back and wanted to learn. They went for an hour and she was really asking all her hashkafa questions; going strong in a very serious way. In the end she broke down crying, and shared that she was offered a job in a remote location, and she realized that since it was so far from a frum community with no kosher etc., accepting the job basically meant giving up Yiddishkeit. She said that the learning she had done with her TorahMate made her realize that she can't do that, and so she gave up the job.

Engineered for Growth

We set up Benny; a 30 year old engineer with a TorahMate in person in Philly eight months ago. He joined the Oorah family for the 2nd half of Pesach and loved that too. He is now gearing up for full time learning in Machon Shlomo this coming year where he will iy'H continue shteiging because of guidance from some of our dedicated staff.

TorahMates meet up to celebrate their second siyum!

A Leave for Learning

Noah Niederhoffer started as a TorahMate about 3 years ago when he was 30.

One of his mentors suggested he take a break from work and try Machon Shlomo for a few months — he enjoyed it so much that he stayed for 2 years.

He called me today to share that he's been learning full time in the Mir for the past few months.

A Done Deal

I'm a wig stylist and Daniella decided she was ready to cover her hair. I "sold" her 2 wigs at wholesale price and today she put it on for the 1st time!!!! It made my day so wanted to share.

Junior TorahMate Avraham Yosef was thrilled his TorahMate Ahron, a Peekskill yeshiva bachur, was able to make the trip to Queens for his Bar Mitzvah.

Takeoff to Teshuvah

Heather met her TorahMate at an airport. She knew absolutely nothing about being Jewish but was drawn to this woman who she saw doing a piece of Judaic needlepoint. They started learning a few months ago and she has been growing ever since. She went to the Women's TorahMates Retreat this spring and since she came home, she has been lighting candles every Friday night and she is proud of herself that she turns off her phone for the entire Shabbos. For the first time in her life, she fasted for Yom Kippur.

TorahMates face to face at last! Amrom and Dylan meet in Israel, where Dylan lives.

Yeshiva Education

Opening Doors to a Torah Life

Thousands of Jewish children are learning in yeshivos today only because someone stepped in to help cover the cost. Oorah's tuition program partners with parents to help give their children the priceless gift of a Torah education and with it, a deep connection to our mesorah. How lucky we are to be Yidden!

Uncovering the Treasure

A classmate told her he was thinking of switching to the Jewish Academy and invited her to come too.

If you had asked Nissim just a few months ago whether his daughter might end up in a Jewish school, he wouldn't have laughed, but he would have told you it was impossible. Not unlikely. Not difficult. Impossible.

He would've listed the reasons, calmly.

First, she wouldn't go. She had no interest in religion. She'd grown up in America, gone through the public school system, and made it clear that she wanted to live as a regular American kid. Second, even if she did want to go, he couldn't afford it. And third, maybe most honestly, he wasn't ready for her to be "more religious" than him.

He believed there was a Creator. He was traditional. Respectful. But not religious.

His daughter, however, was a different story altogether.

Born in America, raised on pop culture and public school, her connection to Yiddishkeit was less than zero. She didn't just not care; she wanted no part of it. Judaism was a relic, something from her father's past that she had no interest in carrying forward.

And Nissim, despite the ache in his heart, understood.

Then something happened. A classmate told her he was thinking of switching to the Jewish Academy and invited her to come too.

The parents, frustrated by her complete rejection to Judaism, took it as an opportunity and asked her to give it a try and take a tour of the school. She agreed. She bumped into one of the teachers during the tour and they had a long meaningful conversation. She told her parents right then: "I am going to this school tomorrow! I want to be part of this Jewish school."

Nissim couldn't believe it. He hadn't expected her to say yes to the tour, let alone decide to enroll. But the challenge wasn't over. Tuition was still an issue.

Through Oorah's Tuition Program, the family received financial assistance. And as part of the program, Nissim was paired with a TorahMate.

Nissim wasn't sure what to expect. He was 45, born in Morocco and raised in Israel. His lifestyle was traditional but not religious. His TorahMate, Rabbi Yosef Aryeh Felsen, was a 63-year-old Chassid from Williamsburg. Not a kiruv professional. Not someone trained to bridge these kinds of gaps. Just a Yid who loved Torah and felt lucky to be who he was.

At first, Nissim worried they wouldn't connect. But by the second session, that fear was gone.

While his daughter was diving headfirst into her new Jewish world, his TorahMate gave him a way to come along for the ride. Instead of watching from the sidelines, he was learning too by asking questions, gaining clarity, even taking on small steps of his own. It meant that when his daughter grew, he didn't feel left behind. They were on the journey together.

And with his daughter now immersed in a Jewish environment, things at home started to shift too. When she began keeping Shabbos, he tried to keep it with her. When she said she only eats kosher now, he started buying kosher too. One Friday morning, he asked why she wasn't going to school, not realizing it was Asarah B'Teves. When she told him she was fasting, he fasted too.

A short while ago, he went to speak with the principal. Before the meeting, the principal said, "Come with me, I want to show you something."

She opened a classroom door.

There stood his daughter, alone, her siddur open. Davening. Not posed. Not aware that anyone was watching. Just a girl, once allergic to anything Jewish, pouring her heart out to Hashem.

He didn't say anything.

He couldn't.

The same girl who once mocked it all now looked like she had been born for it. Like she was coming home.

And maybe, just maybe, he was too.

A member of the Jewish community meets with their rabbi, who guides them in their child's Jewish identity and education.

Other times, families whose children are not in an Orthodox school and are considering switching, meet with a local yeshiva and the school directs them to Oorah for assistance in making the financial decision easier.

Relationship Call

Oorah checks in with parents to ensure their child is adjusting well in yeshiva.

Issues Resolved Oorah works together with the school to support the student and address any challenges that come up.

From Kindergarten to Israel for whole family

When a family becomes part of the Tuition Program, Oorah is dedicated to ensuring that all their children receive a Jewish education—from elementary school all the way through yeshiva or seminary in Israel.

Alumni Kollel Oorah continues to support its alumni as they begin their married life, providing financial assistance and support to those who dedicate themselves to learning in kollel.

From Public School to BMG

I didn't grow up frum. Honestly, I didn't even know what that word meant. I went to public school until ninth grade, and when it came time for high school, my parents and I didn't know where to turn. Our rabbi suggested a Jewish school, and it looked amazing, warm, and welcoming. But then we saw the tuition bill.

We wanted a Jewish education, but we simply couldn't afford it. Then someone said, "There's an organization that helps families like yours." And that's how we found Oorah.

Oorah decided to help a public school kid who wanted to grow. Because of them, I was able to attend that Jewish school and meet rabbeim and frum friends who opened my eyes to a world I never even knew existed. That was the beginning of everything.

When I turned 18, I thought I'd do what most kids do — go to college. But my rebbi looked at me and said, "Now's the time to learn." I told him I couldn't afford Yeshiva, and he said, "Don't worry — Oorah will help." And they did.

I went to Aish-Gesher in Yerushalayim. I didn't even know how to learn Gemara then. I couldn't read Rashi — the letters looked like squiggles to me. But slowly, I started learning. I went to DU and ChillZone, where I discovered that learning Torah could be joyful, that frumkeit could be real, warm, and geshmak. Those programs didn't just teach me — they changed me.

Later, I went to a yeshiva college, instead of going to a state university as I was originally planning. I continued growing, and then back to Eretz Yisroel to learn in a prestigious "Brisk" level Yeshiva, once again with Oorah by my side. They helped with tuition, with pocket money, with everything. Those years in Eretz Yisroel reshaped who I am and who I want to be.

Baruch Hashem, today I'm married and learning full-time in BMG. My parents now have TorahMates. My sisters are going to seminary. Our entire family made a complete 180, from public school to Torah.

All because of Oorah.

Oorah doesn't just help people. They believe in people. They invest in neshamos — in families, in futures.

Thank you, Oorah, for changing my life.

TheZone

A Summer that Lasts a Lifetime

Our staff creates a 24/7 immersive Torah environment in the funnest Jewish summer camp. At TheZone, kids learn it's geshmak to be a Yid!

“ There’s something in the air at TheZone that made me want to do good, and made me have such a strong connection to Hashem and Judaism. TheZone gave me a love for Yiddishkeit I never had before. ”

TheZone’s weekly Shabbos auction adds excitement to Shabbos and encourages participation as campers earn tickets for showing up to tefillos on time, learning with their TorahMates, and singing zemiros.

Menucha V'Simcha

Watch as Zoniacs bring the inspiration and lessons from camp into their homes, enriching their Shabbos with warmth and joy.

At TheZone, we fly our Six Flags high!

The “Six Flags” represent six core areas that we focus on throughout the summer, each one a foundation of a true Torah life. These flags are lived out daily by our staff and campers through action. Whether it’s Shabbos Keepers, Mitzvah Doers, or Menchen, these flags guide Zoniacs to become bnei aliyah who carry the fire of Yiddishkeit with them wherever they may go.

Proud Jews In a world pulling Jewish children away from their roots, TheZone gives them strength to stand tall as proud Yidden.

Mitzvah Doers Whether it’s putting on tzitzis for the first time, making a bracha on our food, or handing in a phone before Shabbos, Zoniacs are ready to do ratzon Hashem - and do it b’simcha.

TorahMates At TheZone, living, loving, and learning Yiddishkeit is who we are, and through weekly Torah Nuggets and the TorahMate they learn with, campers build a lasting connection to Hashem and the Torah that stays with them long after summer ends.

Mentchin One parent said it best after Visiting Day at TheZone: “Rabbi, I was blown away! I’ve never seen such good people.”

Shabbos Keepers Shabbos in TheZone is something else. From candlelighting to Havdalah, the whole camp is uplifted because Zoniacs don’t just keep Shabbos... they love it.

Shteigers Even as Zoniacs celebrate their accomplishments, a growth mindset keeps them looking forward to future goals.

More Than Just a Camp!

From the desk of

A Camp Staff Spouse

I once saw a sign that said “A mother’s heart never runs out of room — it just grows with every child.”

Boruch Hashem, for the past 10 summers, I have been fortunate enough to see this play out in real time, from a very unique perspective - that of a Zone staff husband. Each summer, my wife, Mrs. Aliza Koval, affectionately known as “Mama K,” magically makes the transition from being a mother of five incredible children to being a mother of hundreds of incredible children! To many people, this would seem almost impossible, but she looks forward to the summer experience at TheZone all year long!

I don’t know that I can find one word to describe the feeling that permeates the air around the entire division, but it’s there. You FEEL it. Love? It’s more than that. Joy? Absolutely! But that still doesn’t do it justice. Geshmak? Maybe. Perhaps it’s all those things rolled into one.

As the mashpia of the IMD (intermediate) division of TheZone girls camp, Mama K gives out an average of 26,735 hugs a day. She loves and adores every one of her precious gems and it’s very clear to see that the love goes both ways.

And as far as I can tell, that love, joy and geshmak that Mama K and her amazing staff (and really ALL the staff at TheZone, I’m just focusing on IMD), dole out 24/7, all summer long, may be the most valuable gift these precious Zoniacs receive.

When a Zoniac experiences the magic of TheZone, even if just for 4-5 weeks, the unmistakable conclusion they come away with is simply: IT’S GESHMAK TO BE A YID!

And that’s why, personally, I feel so fortunate to have the zchus to play even a small, supporting role in all of this. Every Shabbos there are campers that inevitably join us at our table by the seudos and we have the most amazing conversations about school, camp, life, yiddishkeit, their pets, their friends, their pets’ friends, you name it! We cover it all. And those connections are priceless. I’m also lucky enough to give “Pump” for the IMD division every Shabbos. If you’re unfamiliar with the term, “Pump” is the daily learning session, or shiur. Or, as they call it in a girls camp: shayer :)!

My wife looks forward all year to giving Pump but she feels it’s important for them to hear from others as well. As for me? I relish the opportunity to take part in what I believe is one of the easiest tickets to Olam Haba you can find in this world. There’s no greater zchus than to care for, and love Hashem’s children. And that’s exactly what goes on at TheZone. All day. Every day.

I remember visiting day a few years ago, when my wife and some other ladies, dressed in their typical, crazy tutus and ridiculous ensembles, were skipping down the hill to greet some families arriving to see their children. One parent was choking back tears, and holding a young daughter’s hand, pointed at the group of merry mashpias (no, they were not drunk; just the usual craziness) and said “I WANT THAT! I want THAT for my daughter!” That parent wasn’t referring to the tutus, the mismatched socks or the colorful headgear. It was the love, the joy and the geshmak! It fills the air at TheZone. It’s EVERYWHERE. And I feel extremely blessed to have a front row seat to the best show on Earth: SUMMER AT THEZONE!

Gedolim & Rabbanim

Throughout the summer, Oorah campers have the incredible zchus to encounter true gedolei Yisroel, rabbanim whose very presence uplifts and inspires. These visits give our children a real dmus of Torah greatness: how a gadol speaks, learns, davens, and carries himself with anavah and yiras Shamayim. For many, it's their first glimpse of authentic gadlus b'Torah, an experience that can't help but touch the heart and leave a lifelong impression.

I was learning with Eitan L at Philly ChillZone last night. We had a question on the gemara we were learning. He says, "Should we call the Rosh Yeshiva?"

I was shocked when he told me who he meant. He told me he calls this rosh yeshiva, of a mainstream yeshivish mesivta, whenever he has a Torah question!

Apparently Eitan got to know him over the summer and now the Rosh Yeshiva makes time for him whenever he calls!

Give to others, show respect,
your actions have a chain effect
I need you and you need me
but most of all Hashem Needs Me!

Chorus:

In TheZone we're escalating higher
Dream, achieve, ignite your inner fire
Raise those hands up, show your hearts desire
Here to shteig in 2025

Zoniacs, let's scream a little louder
I'm a Jew, yes! Nothing makes me prouder
You have got your own exclusive power
Here to shteig in 2025

La la la level up, you can arise now
Be all you can be
Cuz in TheZone we'll show you how

Live Geshmak, with all your might
And wave our Six Flags high
Zoniacs, we'll shine our light!

Keeping Shabbos elevates,
we wait all week just for that day
Do a mitzvah, light a spark,
Zoniacs light up the dark
Shteig and grow and set your goals,
In TheZone the Torah flows
Be kind, be loving, show you care,
Zoniacs are always there!

Chorus

KAH RIBON

A song to our Master - chorus and verse
You who created our whole universe
All of the wonder this world can behold
In this joyous praise - you shall be told:

Kah Ribon Olam
V'almaya
Ahnt Hu Malka
Melech Malchaya

Preparing Your praises all day and night,
You, Hashem, who created all life,
Man - flesh and blood,
To malachim on high,
Beasts of the field, birds of the sky...

Our Creator on high,
Master of Worlds - Earth and Sky,
Our King, Ruler of all,
Your beautiful praises we call

Your deeds oh so mighty
- we praise You out loud
You help us stand straight,
Make humble who's proud,
Even a thousand years living on Earth,
We'd never know,
All the power you're worth...

Kah Ribon Olam...

Hashem who we honor,
Save Your little lamb,
The fierce lion's mouth is so close at hand,
Gather Your people from Galus so far,
The nation You chose
- the Am Hanivchar...

Our Creator on high..

Return Bais Hamikdash -
and Kodesh Kudshin,
Spirits rejoice - where we long to have been,
Singing the songs of praising Hashem
In our beautiful city - oh Jerusalem!

Kah Ribon Olam...

Our Creator on High...

Oorah Events

Where Shabbos and Yom Tov Become Real

Hundreds of people from all walks of life come together to experience an authentic Yom Tov in an immersive environment filled with kedusha and connection.

“ We walked away feeling a deeper connection — not just to the people around us, but to our Judaism, to our community, and to each other. ”

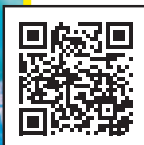

I asked the little boy in the red suit, named Meir, if he enjoyed Shabbos. Meir said enthusiastically, "Yes, I really enjoyed Shabbos. I am so glad to be a Jew! But you know what's even better? We are showing that we are happy to be Jewish!"

Rabbi Tzvi Altusky, TheZone chef, prepares for the hundreds of people arriving for yom tov.

“ We were looking for an inspirational experience with meaningful davening in a scenic environment for Rosh Hashana. We found that and so much more and we are so grateful! I love learning with my TorahMate and this whole new community that is so warm and welcoming. Thank you! ”

Bidding for Eternity

Simchas Torah at TheZone

In shuls, people bid for aliyos with money.

In yeshivos, they bid for a blatt Gemara.

But in TheZone, the currency looks a little different.

Here, the excitement fills the room long before anything starts. Boys crowd around, each one eager for a chance to take part in saying a pasuk in Atah Hor'eisa.

But these bids aren't in dollars.
They're in kabbalos.

I'll say a bracha
on one food
every day.

I'll wear my tzitzit to school.

I'll try to keep Shabbos for 4
weeks.

I'll wear a kippah to school every day.

Each kabbalah is a diamond, each pasuk in Atah Hor'eisa a crown earned with sincerity and fire. And the singing and dancing that follow are Simchas Torah in its truest form.

As the singing swells and the circles of dancing grow wider, you can see it on their faces — the pride, the joy, the belonging.

The joy of being a Yid who wants more.

Ashreinu - mah tov chelkeinu...

From the other side of the Mechitza

The bidding started off as a currency to “buy” a Pasuk in Ata Hor'eisa. However, the momentum shifted as the inspiration spread and intensified. People felt the spirit of Simchas Torah is to connect to Hashem and His Torah by accepting a commitment in Torah. The women began to make Kabbalos even though they did not receive a Pasuk.

Kabbalos from women included:

I will...

...bake challah so I can say the bracha.

...say brachos on food with more kavana.

...be sure to have more patience for my children.

...learn the Halachos of Shmiras Halashon.

...light Shabbos candles a few minutes early to welcome Shabbos calmly.

Oorah in a Box

Simchas Yom Tov Reaching Homes Across the Country

Filled with holiday essentials, these packages help bring the joy and spirit of Yom Tov into homes all across the country. A lulav and esrog for Sukkos, Mishloach Manos and graggers for Purim, matzah for Pesach and more, all help ensure that yom tov is complete for every Oorah family.

“All the Chanukah essentials (and extras!) delivered in one stunning package - the best Chanukah present.”

Kids from local schools and camps gain a powerful lesson in chessed when they come to Oorah to help pack the boxes.

Spreading Joy

Watch the impact of an Oorah Purim box, delivered to over 6,300 homes, in this fun music video.

Yom Tov Unboxed!

Each Yom Tov package we send out includes a beautifully designed card that walks recipients through every item inside, what it represents, and how to use it.

This card turns each treat, activity, and mitzvah item into an opportunity to learn and connect. By making it fun and easy to follow, families can feel the spirit of Yom Tov come alive — even if it's their very first time celebrating.

An excited yeshiva student with his package.

Oorah sends out a full Chanukah party in a box, giving families a bright, meaningful, and memorable way to celebrate and light up their Yom Tov.

Oorah brings the simchas Purim to every home with a box bursting with color, candy, creativity, and that unmistakable Purim excitement kids love.

“Receiving a goodie basket, knowing it's coming from a huge network of loving people, is incredible.”

Dear Oorah

Dear TorahMates Coordinator,

In honor of Elul, my TorahMate told me she's going to wear hairbands and hats covering her hair even while at work or at home (she's only been covering her hair when she goes outside till now.)

She's such a growing person!

Dear Camp Office,

The influence of Oorah and TheZone on our family has been profound. The camp experience has given Gideon a deep sense of belonging, pride, and connection to his Jewish identity. This past Sukkot, his counselors from The Zone traveled from New York to Florida to help build our family's first sukkah, a moment of incredible meaning and joy. Gideon worked side by side with them, learning the value of friendship, community, and giving back. We are deeply grateful for the continued impact of The Zone and Oorah in our lives and eagerly anticipate Gideon continuing to be part of this nurturing and inspiring community.

Hi Tehilla! Thank you and the whole Oorah staff for the beautiful Mishloach Manot box!!! We just got it 🥰🥰 Chag Purim Sameach !!! Thank you for all that you do 🥰 we appreciate and love the learning we do each week with our TorahMates 🥰💖 Thank you again from the Davidov family 🥰💖🥰

Dear TorahMates Coordinator,

The family was so excited to receive the festive box for Purim and use the contents to make mishloach manot gifts for our neighbors (although some of the contents already made it into the kids' mouths -- just to "test" for Purim :-)

Thank you for spreading happiness and making our family feel more and more connected with yiddishkeit. Thank you for dedicating your work to strengthening the bonds between Jewish people of different backgrounds and upbringings.

Chag Purim Sameach to you, your family, and wonderful colleagues of TorahMate!!

Dear Rabbi Biron,

BH, Rav, I've never had a chavrusa like this in my life. I genuinely look forward to our learning every day. Thank you so much.

Michael

Dear TorahMates Coordinator,

It's amazing how I thought I was going to do something fun (join TorahMates) during COVID and it ended up completely changing my life!!

Dear Mrs. Levin,

Yesterday, when I came home from Yom Kippur services, I found a package waiting on my doorstep—a lulav and etrog from Rabbi Mintz. I can't tell you what a surprise it was, and how touched I felt opening it.

I'll be bringing them to friends who have built a sukkah so we can enjoy them together. In the middle of so much troubling news these days, this simple, thoughtful gift brought me such joy and a real feeling of connection.

Please thank Rabbi Mintz for me and I thank you for all that you do.

With gratitude and warmth,
Marsha

To the Entire Team at TheZone,

I am writing to express my deepest gratitude for the unforgettable experience Eliana had at The Zone this summer. It's hard to put into words just how profoundly she has been impacted. She came home a completely changed person, in the most beautiful way.

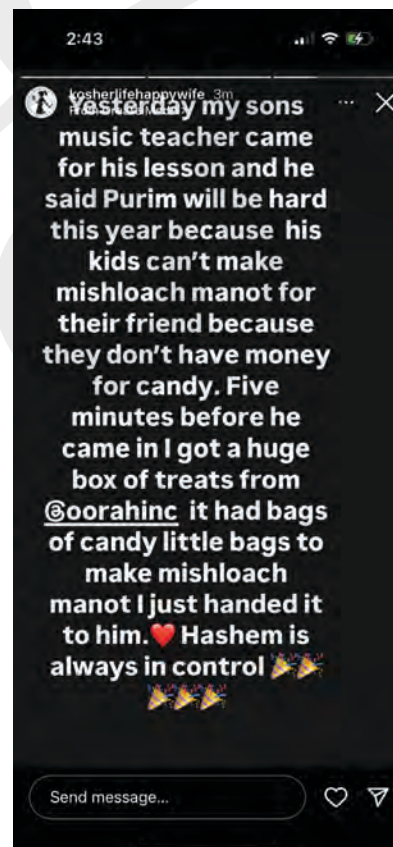

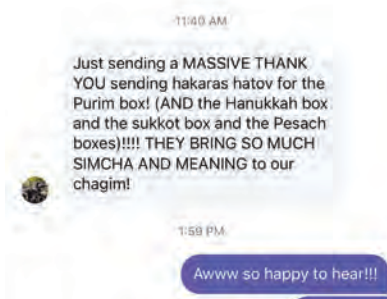

Eliana speaks constantly about her Torah-Mate, and how deeply she admires her. The connection they built clearly had a major influence on her. Eliana regularly shares insights from their learning sessions, and it's been such a joy to see her face light up when she talks about what they learned together. She speaks so much about all of the staff members and the friends she connected with. She even sang us the Zemirot from her Zone book, this past Shabbat. Her love for Judaism, her desire to grow spiritually, and her effort to see the hand of Hashem in every moment, has brought about a complete shift - not just in her - but in our entire family. Our home feels more centered, connected, and spiritual than ever before.

Thank you, from the bottom of our hearts, for creating such a safe, uplifting, and transformative space for Eliana. The impact has been life-changing.. not only for her, but for our entire family.

Dear Zone Staff,

That Torah Nuggets book you sent home with is fascinating! I already read through half of it. I showed it to the Rabbi and he was very impressed.

The most interesting part was learning about the differences between Eretz Yisroel and Israel. I had always wondered if the Torah had different guidelines for the land.

Dear TorahMates Coordinators,

A huge thank you to everyone at Oorah for building, supporting, and enabling such meaningful Torah learning and life-changing connections!

Rebbetzins

Bringing Baalei Teshuvah to the Chuppah

The Rebbetzins program offers practical guidance, support, and real understanding. With events, resources, and one-on-one support, Rebbetzins brings warmth and direction to the often overwhelming world of shidduchim, carrying baalei teshuvah to the chuppah and beyond.

From the moment I signed up, it was clear that nothing was overlooked. Even before the event began, shadchanim reached out with warmth and genuine interest, setting a tone of care and encouragement that permeated the entire experience.

This is my 3rd time at a Rebbetzins Retreat and each time, I feel and see the amount of effort and care that goes into pulling something like this off and it still never ceases to amaze me.

While we daven that many shidduchim will come from this weekend, the chizzuk and fortifying experience it provided was tremendous in its own right, regardless of any other outcome.

I left feeling inspired, renewed, and connected, all while knowing it was a very productive weekend.

Rebbetzins

Rebbetzins

I met Tuvy at the spring retreat and now we're 7 weeks married BH!

While I signed up for the retreat, I almost backed out because I thought, what are the chances I would actually meet my husband??

But I decided to trust Hashem and told myself ישועת ד' כהרף עין. One can only daven and put in their hishtadlus, and Hashem takes care of everything. He is the only one that knows what is best for you at the right time.

My husband and I came from what felt like 2 different worlds (I'm Bukharian from Queens and he's Ashkenaz from Lakewood). We had our own journeys and experiences, and if we had met earlier, it would not have worked out. Hashem truly has the perfect timing for every single person! I am beyond grateful in meeting him, especially the way that we did.

Remember to never lose hope and know that your salvation can come in the blink of an eye.
